TechLaw Solutions Welcomes Greg Hudson as Regional Director

Chantilly, VA – August 12, 2009 – TechLaw Solutions is pleased to announce that Greg Hudson has joined the company as Southeast Regional Director, based in our Chantilly, VA headquarters.

With over 15 years of experience in the litigation support industry, Greg is well positioned to take a leading role in TechLaw Solutions' efforts working with law firms and corporations. Among his experiences, Greg played an instrumental role in coordinating and overseeing a 21 million image document review for a matter lasting over two years that resulted in a positive outcome for the firm and the international organization they represented.

“Greg’s extensive background will enable him to provide a broad perspective in helping our clients determine the most efficient and effective solutions to address their electronic discovery matters,” said Chris Anzivino, National Sales Director at TechLaw Solutions.

Prior to joining TechLaw Solutions, Greg spent time serving as the Director of Operations and a Sr. Account Executive with an electronic discovery and content management organization, where he focused on providing solutions for electronic discovery and web-hosting matters, played a crucial role in building company infrastructure, and overseeing the day-to-day management of the client support and project management team. Greg has worked with numerous AmLaw 250 firms providing solutions for forensic collection and processing on a national and international scale. Greg attended Brevard College and George Mason University where he majored in Communications.

Greg can be reached at ghudson@techlawsolutions.com or 703.818.3218.
